UNDERGRADUATE SCENARIO

PUCRS 360°

In 2017, the University launched PUCRS 360°, a movement of transformation. One of the highlights of this movement is the fact that undergraduate students can now choose whichever course they want to take in order to bring their career to a higher level of quality in view of their interests. This is one of the actions PUCRS has endeavored to undertake in order to respond to the needs of the different youth and students it hopes to open its doors to.

In this new perspective, students will choose the courses they want to take in order to complete a minor as well as specific courses in the area of their chosen major. All of that will be permeated by intense actions of human development. This gives students more autonomy and flexibility in their learning process.

In line with the National System of Evaluation of Higher Education (SINAES), PUCRS develops self-evaluation processes with the internal community and is evaluated by the Anísio Teixeira National Institute for Educational Studies and Research (INEP/Ministry of Education).

The internal evaluation is carried out by Assessment Committees (CPA/CTA), and its results provide insights for the continuous improvement of teaching, research and extension activities.

As for the external evaluation, results published by the INEP/MEC in 2017 deserve special attention. In the General Index of Courses (IGC), PUCRS received grade 4, which places it as the fourth best private university in Brazil. The IGC is an indicator of quality of higher education institutions that looks at the quality of undergraduate and graduate programs (Master's and Doctoral programs).

This program gives High School students the chance to have academic, scientific, and professional experiences in a university setting as they take part in practicum activities in the academic programs at the Academic Schools and laboratories.

At the end of Pré-Grad, students will have the chance to apply for the Bolsa de Iniciação Científica Júnior (Junior Undergraduate Research Scholarship) to develop activities in research groups in the graduate programs of PUCRS.

STUDENT PLACEMENT IN THE JOB MARKET

The Careers Office is a space dedicated to undergraduate and graduate students, and alumni from PUCRS as well as the external community. Its purpose is to guide these students in their career planning, job placement and assist them in developing the skills needed in the job market. It is also intended to strengthen the ties between students of PUCRS and the business world. Additionally, it aims at building a career plan that encompasses the personal and professional achievement of the students.

Every year, the Office promotes the Career Fair, on the Main Campus of PUCRS, in an effort to bring students, alumni and representatives of major companies together. These companies will introduce the audience to their organizational culture, show them their job postings and opportunities, explain the recruitment processes and spot future talents.

The 2017 edition of the Career Fair was unique in the sense that it featured partner companies welcoming students and the community at the Academic Schools

INTERNATIONALIZATION

PUCRS has set out that one of the pillars of the Strategic Plan in effect until 2022 will be the promotion of Internationalization and Interculturality. One of the goals of this pillar is to develop international partnerships with institutions. This is in close connection with the identification and consolidation of strategic international partnerships at the institutional level, in critical areas for the University's positioning and vision of future. The areas identified include: companies, represented by the Science and Technology Park (Tecnopuc); research and interdisciplinary training, represented by the academic units; and businesses, represented by the Business School.

As for the academic realm, six courses in English are offered at the Master's and Doctoral levels. The initiative is intended to gradually increase the number of courses to be offered to Brazilian and international students at the graduate-level.

EDUCATION-EXTENSION INTEGRATION

Among other things, the Tutorial Teaching Program (PET) aims at offering additional training opportunities to undergraduate students, fostering both academic and professional autonomy, emphasizing the principles of tutorial education and the relationship between teaching, research and extension. PUCRS has a PET group consisting of 63 students. This program is advised by a faculty member. The PET students conduct multi and interdisciplinary work that contributes to civic development and for the social development of the communities where the projects are carried out. The following programs are involved: Chemistry, Psychology, Letters, Biological Sciences and Computer Science. The courses advance the interaction between groups and between students whether or not they are on scholarships, in order to develop interdisciplinary work and enable the multiplying effect of PET on the academic community.
